Pack 03 — Performance Management | Ref: P03-00

Read this first. The last two documents are the ones that carry legal risk.

WHAT THIS PACK DOES

Performance management in most Indian SMEs is an annual form, filled in late, that decides an increment. It produces no improvement, no record worth having, and no defensible basis for a difficult decision. This pack replaces that with a cycle that runs all year, produces evidence as a by-product, and holds up if it is ever challenged.

THE PART NOBODY TELLS YOU

Ending someone's employment for poor performance is not a purely commercial decision in India. Where the person is a worker under section 2(zr) of the Industrial Relations Code 2020, it can amount to retrenchment, which carries one month's notice or wages in lieu, fifteen days' average pay for every completed year of service, notification to the appropriate Government, and a re-skilling fund contribution of fifteen days' wages within forty-five days. Most companies handle a performance exit as a resignation conversation and discover this afterwards, which is the expensive order to discover it in.

WHAT IS INSIDE

Ref	Asset	Format	What it is for
P03-00	Start Here — Pack Guide	Word	This document. Cycle design, sequence, legal warnings.
P03-01	Performance Management Framework & Policy	Word	The policy itself. Cycle, ratings, who decides what.
P03-02	Goal Setting Guide & Goal Sheet	Word	KRAs and OKRs that can actually be assessed.
P03-03	Competency Framework & Rating Scale	Word	What each rating means, so managers agree.
P03-04	Self-Assessment Form	Word	The employee's version, written first.
P03-05	Manager Review Form	Word	Mid-year and annual. Evidence-based.
P03-06	360-Degree Feedback Kit	Word	Peer and stakeholder input without the politics.
P03-07	Calibration & Moderation Guide	Word	Making ratings mean the same thing across managers.
P03-08	One-to-One & Feedback Guide	Word	The weekly habit that makes the annual review easy.
P03-09	Performance Improvement Plan	Word	Genuine improvement first. Evidence second.
P03-10	Performance Exit — Legal Process Note	Word	Worker or not, retrenchment or not, what you owe.
P03-11	Promotion Framework & Letter	Word	Criteria, process, and the letter.
P03-12	Increment & Appraisal Letters	Word	Communicating the outcome properly.
P03-13	Review Cycle Calendar & Comms Kit	Word	Dates, reminders, and what to tell everyone.

Performance Improvement Plan

Pack 03 — Performance Management | Ref: P03-09

An improvement process. If you are using it as a notice period, stop.

HOW TO USE THIS DOCUMENT

Field	Detail
Purpose	Give someone a genuine, structured opportunity to reach the required standard, with the support and the clarity to do it, and to create an honest record of that attempt either way.
When to use it	As soon as a material gap is clear. Not at the end of the cycle, and not once you have already decided the outcome.
Who should use it	Manager runs it. HR reviews the plan before it is issued and sits in on the closing conversation.
Output	A signed plan, dated review notes, and a documented outcome.
Time to complete	90 minutes to prepare, 30 minutes per review

Step-by-step instructions

1. Be honest with yourself about the purpose first — If you have already decided the person is leaving, a PIP is not the right instrument and using it as one is obvious to everyone including a tribunal. Indian courts look for a genuine opportunity to improve. A plan designed to fail is evidence against you, not for you.
2. Check whether the problem is performance at all — Conduct goes to the disciplinary policy. Ill health goes to a different conversation entirely. A change in the role that nobody acknowledged is a management problem. Only genuine capability gaps belong here.
3. Check what you actually gave them — Were goals agreed in writing? Did the one-to-ones happen? Was the training delivered? If the honest answer to two of those is no, fix your side before you formalise theirs.
4. Write outcomes, not attitudes — "Improve ownership" cannot be assessed and cannot be defended. "Close assigned tickets within the agreed SLA in at least 90 per cent of cases across the next eight weeks" can be.
5. Set a period long enough to be real — Thirty days is rarely enough to demonstrate sustained change. Sixty to ninety days is the usual range. The period should match how long the work actually takes to show results.
6. State the support explicitly — Training, shadowing, reduced scope, more frequent check-ins. A plan that demands change while offering nothing is not a genuine opportunity.
7. Review fortnightly, in writing — A PIP with no interim record is a PIP that cannot be relied on afterwards. Ten minutes and three sentences each time is enough.
8. State the consequence plainly, once — The person should know what happens if the standard is not met. Saying it once, clearly, at the start is fairer than implying it repeatedly.
9. Close it formally, whichever way it goes — Successful completion deserves a letter too. A PIP that just fades out teaches everyone that the process is theatre.

PART B — THE PLAN (EDITABLE)

Employee name and ID
Designation and department
Manager
Date of joining
Plan start date
Plan end date	Typically 60 to 90 days from start
Review dates	Fortnightly
HR reviewer

1. Where performance currently stands

State the gap factually, with examples and dates. No adjectives.

Area	Required standard	What has been observed	Evidence

2. What must change, and by when

#	Objective	How it will be measured	By when
1
2
3

Three objectives is usually the maximum. More than that and the plan becomes a wish list rather than a focus.

3. Support the company will provide

Support	Who provides it	By when
