Pack 01 — Talent Acquisition | Ref: P01-00

Read this first. It explains what is inside, the order to use it in, and how to adapt it.

START HERE

This pack covers the hiring lifecycle from the moment a manager identifies a vacancy to the moment a candidate accepts an offer. Twenty-seven assets, sequenced. If you use nothing else, use the Manpower Requisition Form, the Interview Scorecard and the Hiring Tracker — those three alone will remove most of the chaos from a growing company's hiring.

Offer Letter Templates

Pack 01 — Talent Acquisition | Ref: P01-12

Three variants: permanent, fixed-term and internship. India-aligned.

HOW TO USE THIS DOCUMENT

Purpose	Issue a clear, legally sound and warm offer letter that states the complete terms, avoids the ambiguities that cause disputes at joining, and gives the candidate a reason to say yes.
When to use it	Immediately after offer approval. Within 48 hours of the hiring decision.
Who should use it	Generated by HR from the approved offer sheet. Signed by the authorised signatory.
Output	A signed offer letter with an annexure setting out the compensation break-up.
Time to complete	20 minutes

Step-by-step instructions

1. Generate from the approved offer sheet — Never retype the numbers. Mail merge or copy directly, then have a second person verify against the approval.
2. Attach the compensation annexure — A CTC figure without a component break-up is the single largest cause of joining-day disputes in India.
3. State every condition precedent clearly — Background verification, document submission, relieving letter, medical if applicable. Conditions discovered later look like bad faith.
4. Set a realistic acceptance deadline — Five to seven working days. Aggressive 24-hour deadlines damage trust and rarely accelerate anything.
5. Call before you send — Walk the candidate through the structure on a call, then email. Acceptance rates are meaningfully higher when the offer is explained rather than delivered.
6. Stay in contact until joining — The gap between acceptance and joining is where offers are lost to counter-offers. Use the pre-joining engagement plan in Module 2.
